

Happy Holidays to all our family and friends!

This year instead of our usual newsletter we had to improvise. It has been a very challenging year, and it started in January when a small fender bender totaled our main car, because it wasn't fixed correctly from the accident 7 years ago! It hasn't been easy as everything that can go wrong has gone wrong. We don't have fancy cards this year, or family pictures however the four of us have each other and at the end of the year that is what matters! So instead of a newsletter here are some updates on our teenagers!

David turned 16 in March and got his driver's license! He also got a job at the local grocery store as a cashier. He is currently learning to play songs on his guitar by ear and doing a great job. It is hard to believe he started his junior year of high school and has been helping with the special Olympics team as a helper coach.

Connor turned 13 in January and is in his last year of middle school. It is crazy to think that he had his last season with the Grant Jr. Bulldogs football team that we have been with since he was 7. His team made the playoffs this year, making it a great finish to a season. He is also playing basketball with his school team and on the feeder basketball team for the Catholic High School. Hard to believe we will be sending him to high school next year!

We were able to do a few fun things this year. In January we took Connor to the Packer game at Lambeau for his Christmas gift, and he had a blast! They don't call it the frozen tundra for nothing though because it was COLD. The packers did win, and he got to enjoy the game with his cousin Zachery. We also took them to Medieval times a place they have been asking to go for years. I had never been there before, so it was a fun evening out.

We wish everyone a very Happy and Healthy New Year and are looking forward to new adventures with the kids as they both end their "last year" as a middle school and junior and begin their first and last years at high school. The newsletter will be back next year along with Family pictures!

Wishing everyone love and happiness,

The Hart Family
